Statement

The TFHK system has its origins in a diagnostic system, and is often used by physicians in conjunction with the diagnostic model. There is some use of biomedical terminology and use of disease names in the Touch for Health Manual and in the new computer program available on CD-ROM (www.touchforhealth.com). This is not meant to suggest that TFHK itself is used to diagnose or treat named diseases, or that training in pathology and diagnosis is necessary to use TFHK either informally in the home, or as a professional practice.

The biomedical terminology (like therapy, diagnosis, etc.) is included as one additional clue for those working in the biomedical, diagnostic model. Even those working within the diagnostic model will use TFH Kinesiology as only one piece of information, together with all of the other biostatistical measures used in biomedicine, to make a diagnosis, and Ideally will focus on the whole person and their positive goals, rather than merely treat diseases.

Those who do not have training and are not licenced in this model are legally barred from and should not pretend to diagnose or treat diseases in the pathology model. Working in the Holistic, Wellness-oriented, or Salutogenic TFHK-model, without using biomedical terminology or technology, is legal, safe, effective and empowering for lay people and professional TFH kinesiologists, without any special bio-medical training. The Vitalist, energetic model of health enhancement is different from the diagnostic disease-fighting model.

No model is complete, but each model may be very effective within its limits. In clinical work often more than one model may be used appropriately by those qualified to use the models.
